Opening accounts, including taking member identification is a daily activity at every credit union. Providing specialized training for employees completing this important task is a key to successful account opening procedures. You can build confidence by increasing knowledge and skills. Our expert instructor teaches the importance of each type of account, what is unique about it and how to properly complete the forms and documents using best practice guidelines. More importantly, our instructor will walk participants through the pitfalls and legal issues that can occur when the forms and documents are not completed correctly. We will also focus on the negative impact errors can have on the member and the credit union. Anti-Money Laundering related topics are covered in these workshops.
